You can find a series of tutorials on the Internet for creating a "photoshop like" image at www.mymini.com/photoshop. This is a short tutorial that explains the basics. Dreamweaver CS5 can also use Photoshop layers by importing them into Dreamweaver. Photoshop layers will be reflected in a Dreamweaver layer palette. You can save projects in Photoshop and export them as reusable projects using File⇒Export⇒Export to Other Application. The export will create a file that is an Adobe Photoshop File format (.psd) file. The.psd file contains all the layers and components from the Photoshop document. You can import the.psd file to other applications using File⇒Import⇒Import From Other Application. The.psd file will appear as a new document in the application, with all the layers and features. Photoshop has a direct relationship with other programs in Adobe's suite of programs. Adobe Photoshop Elements also uses Photoshop Layers, but Adobe's smaller, cheaper, and easier-to-use program uses a slightly different approach to layers. (I cover Photoshop Elements further in Chapter 15.)

A: Put the media file in a subfolder (we can call it '/sdcard/mnt/media/media') and that gives the path of our files like this: sdcard/mnt/media/media/1.jpg Beware, the folders 'internal' and 'external' are hidden and cannot be seen in Explorer, hence accessing the folders with path strings like /sdcard/mnt/external has no effect. It is possible to see these hidden folders using the command: adb shell ls /sdcard/mnt which lists the contents of all the hidden folders. A: It is actually easier than what Jan suggested. Using that method will mean your files will be hidden so if you do not know how to view hidden items then you might get rid of all of your photos. The code to get the path would be : String path = Environment.getExternalStoragePublicDirectory(Environment.DIRECTORY_PICTURES).getAbsolutePath() + "/test.jpg"; If the file is saved in a sub folder then you would just add.+ "/" to get the directory String path = Environment.getExternalStoragePublicDirectory(Environment.DIRECTORY_PICTURES).getAbsolutePath() + "/" + "test.jpg"; FILE PHOTO: A sea of well wishers stands by as Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi arrives for the 'NDA Defiance' rally in Telangana's Bhongir, India, February 12, 2019.
