Colorado boy who was shot to death while he was on a hike with his father has made a surprising, legal move. Heather Crowther on Friday afternoon filed a motion with a federal judge in Denver asking that the release of her son's autopsy report be temporarily blocked. In the motion, Crowther, who is a Utah attorney, said the release of a redacted autopsy report could harm the family and its privacy. Crowther's husband is Taysom Boyd, who was also shot. As a preliminary matter, she's asking that Boyd's request to unseal the autopsy report be granted. The family is not asking that release of the autopsy report be permanently halted, but is asking for a temporary halt so that it can seek "discovery" of the report and information pertaining to the case. Read Morepackage org.zalando.opentracing.spring.web.servlet; import static org.mockito.Mockito.mock; import static org.mockito.Mockito.when;
